

Amy Carmichael lived in a big, tall house by the ocean, with her father, her mother, her brother Norman and her little brother, Ernest. Amy and her brothers would often get into mischief together. Amy liked to think up new and exciting games to play, but what Amy really longed for was an adventure.

One day, Amy wanted to sail out to sea. It would be so exciting, she thought.

‘Come on!’ she yelled at her mischievous brothers. ‘Let’s find a rowing boat!’

When they arrived at the beach, they were hot and out of breath. It didn’t take them long before they found a little boat tied up on the sands. Soon they were off.

‘Hurray, hurray!’ Amy squealed. ‘We’re going on a real adventure now.’

'Let's find a rowing boat!' yelled Amy.
